HEARST JOINS FIGHT ON SENATE SNOOPERS

Publisher Seeks Writ Against W. U. Giving Up Message

Washington, March 12—(AP)—William Randolph Hearst filed in the Supreme Court a petition seeking to prevent the Western Union Telegraph Company from delivering a copy of a telegram to the senate lobby committee.

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, who yesterday enjoined the telegraph company from turning over to the committee telegrams sent and received by the Chicago law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, refused to sign an immediate restraining order on the Hearst request. He said he preferred to hear the case on its merits.

Wheat said the Hearst case differed from the Strawn firm case in that Hearst named one specific telegram. The Strawn firm won a blanket injunction against delivering all telegrams, over a period of months.

Company Will Answer

Elishe Hanson, attorney for Hearst, explained he would have Western Union file an answer in the court so that the case could be heard on its merits as soon as possible.

Critics who had charged the committee was embarked on "fishing expeditions" took delight in yesterday's ruling by Wheat.

On the other hand, the committee chairman, Senator Black (D-Ala.), called the decision "unconstitutional" and hinted he would fight. Whether he would ignore the court ruling and seek to obtain the telegrams anyway, or whether he would push for legislation forbidding courts to issue such injunctions was, not immediately announced.

Significant Ruling

Because congressional investigations have been numerous in recent years and have played a major role in government, the ruling was regarded as of major significance. Unless it is overturned in future court tests, it appears to delimit the activities of all future inquiries.

Under it congress cannot resort to wholesale subpoenaing of documents; it must define more specifically the ones it wants.

The Black committee had called on Western Union to produce all telegrams sent by the law firm during 10 months of last year. It later explained it was hunting for certain wires charged to the law firm, but paid for by the American Liberty League, opponent of the New Deal's utility holding company control bill.

Several Courses Open

Observers saw several courses open to the committee, among them:

It could call on the Western Union again to submit the telegrams, and in case of a refusal, try to get the senate to cite the company for contempt. This might lead to a fight before the supreme court.

It could try to obtain legislation denying to the federal courts any authority to issue such injunctions as Judge Wheat's. Black already has hinted he might take this step.

It could bow to Judge Wheat's decision, and perhaps issue a new subpoena specifying the exact telegrams wanted.

In his petition, Hearst alleged a copy of a telegram had been obtained illegally by the Black committee through the communications commission. The telegram was said to have been sent by Hearst to an editor, instructing the latter to prepare a series of editorials for submission to Hearst for approval.

Restraint of Press.

The publisher held that congress is without authority, under the constitution, to interfere with, restrain or restrict the business of the press. He contended production of the telegram in question would result in no valid legislation.

The petition also said "no agency of the government has the power to go on a fishing expedition into matters concerning the conduct of the business of the press, to obtain messages exchanged between publishers and their employees, and to turn such messages over to other agencies for whatever use such other agencies may desire to make of them."

Hearst said the Black committee served a subpoena upon T. B. Kingsbury, superintendent of the

"Spilled Beans"

Washington, March 12—(AP)—The parents of an 8-year-old boy seemed to be getting along nicely explaining to police he was too small to start a $50,000 five-alarm fire. That is, until the boy—his eyes pricked perhaps—volunteered:

"Oh yes, I could too, mother."

So the boy was charged today with destroying $50,000 worth of property, which included a lumber yard, 10 garages and nine houses. Police said he started the fire in a woodshed to warm himself and then ran home when it spread.

FIRST MEETING OF REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN HELD

Large Crowd Heard Hull, Johnson and Nicholson Last Night

A large and attentive gathering assembled in Schuler's hall last evening for the first Republican meeting of the 1936 primary campaign, at which former Congressman William E. Hull of Peoria, candidate for U. S. Senator, was the principal speaker. At the conclusion of the program, refreshments were served and dancing furnished entertainment for the remainder of the evening, the participants in this part of the program being the guests of Mr. Hull.

Roy Barnes, vice chairman of the Illinois Republican central committee, presided as chairman of the meeting and presented the speakers. Besides Mr. Hull, two other candidates were introduced and responded briefly, highly commending the record and ability of Mr. Hull to fill the position which his friends have insisted that he become a candidate. Anton J. Johnson of Macomb, candidate for state treasurer, and E. E. Nicholson of Springfield, candidate for auditor of public accounts, who served 16 years as chief bank examiner of Illinois, were presented by the chairman.

Mr. Hull in presenting his policies and comments upon present national conditions said:

"Why He's Republican.

"From 1861 to 1865 my father fought for four long years to preserve the integrity of this nation and to safeguard the constitution. For the last forty years I have been following his acts by voting the Republican ticket, because the Republican party was founded upon the principle that every American

Commission Form of Government in Ogle Co. Proposed

(Telegraph Special Service)

Oregon, March 12—F. W. Bonack of Davis Junction filed petitions today with County Clerk Sidney J. Hess at Oregon, seeking to secure a vote on the proposal of adopting the commission form of government in Ogle county to replace the present board of supervisors. The proposition has never been presented to the voters of Ogle county. The petitions were said to have borne the signatures of more than five per cent of the legal voters of the county.

Repudiation of Roosevelt by Adoption of Critical Platform Aim of Anti Forces Says Lewis

Washington, March 12—(AP)—An attempt by anti-New Deal Democrats to adopt a party platform so critical of administration policies that President Roosevelt would be forced to repudiate his policies or decline re-nomination was forecast today by Senator Lewis (D-Ill.).

Lewis said this was the objective of such New Deal critics as former Governor Ely, Massachusetts, former Senator Reed of Missouri, and former Governor Smith of New York.

Much speculation was aroused in political circles by a recent conference by these three former Democratic officials.

Lewis warned party leaders the move to repudiate Roosevelt through the party platform was being carried on "very shrewdly" and that they must be "on the alert" to defeat it.

He said many candidates for convention delegates would be "shrewd enough to stand for election as Roosevelt delegates," but if chosen would vote for a platform repudiating the New Deal, hoping in this way to defeat the president indirectly.

The senator forecast that if the anti-Roosevelt Democrats failed in their objective at the convention they would run a "constitutional Democrat" in an effort to beat Roosevelt or at least throw the election into the house. Under the law if no candidate gets a majority of the electoral votes, the president is elected by the house of representatives.

DIXON HIGH'S CAGERS DOWN LASALLE-PERU

Determination to Win Carries Team to Fine Victory

Accuracy at the free throw line, long shot ability when the enemy's defense was tight, and a burning determination to win convinced fate that Dixon should win last night, and when the wheel of fortune stopped turning at last, the Sharpshooters survived and the LaSalle-Peru Cavaliers' sectional and state title quest was ended, 24 to 21, in DeKalb high school's big gymnasium.

One hundred fifty loyal supporters of the Purple and White team migrated to DeKalb to witness the contest in which Dixon had been decidedly rated as underdog against the powerful runners-up in the Big Seven conference. The Cavaliers of L-P, resplendent in their red and green jerseys, looked rangy and tough but the game was not five minutes old before nearly everyone was convinced they lacked the winning punch last night.

Game Starts Slowly

Both teams started the game slowly and carefully, each cautiously testing the floor play of the other. Plagen and Schott trick, L-P forward, broke through Dixon's tight zone defense a few times for set-up shots in the opening period but they were hurried and the ball invariably bounced around the rim of the basket and onto the floor again. After about four minutes play, Krug was fouled by Engel, Cavalier guard, and the local star broke the ice by sinking his free chance. He followed this up with a long shot a moment later and the period ended with Dixon holding a 3 to 0 lead.

In the second quarter Dixon continued to capitalize on every scoring opportunity via the free lane. Evans, Rebeck and Krug each got these chances and during the first half the locals missed only one out of five tries to that method. Engel was fouled in the second quarter by Klein and gave L-P a free throw to put the Cavaliers in the scoring columns. He followed this up with L-P's first goal after missing a free

Bundle of Bedding Returned to Dixon Man from E. Moline

Charles Stewart of this city while moving to a farm in Palmyra township last week lost a large bundle of bedding from the truck west of the viaduct on the Lincoln highway. The driver of a passing car was observed to stop, pick up the bundle and drove west, the observer taking the license numbers and turning these in to Chief Van Bibber.

Last evening Robert Scale of the state highway engineer's office returned the bundle to the police station, it having been turned over to him by the chief of police at East Moline where it had been delivered to the police station by the finder, following receipt of a letter from Chief Van Bibber. The bedding was later returned to its origin.

Townships Must Levy Tax for Pauper Relief to Get Any Assistance from State

Supervisors Learn of New Relief Setup This Morn

Each township of Lee county, desiring to benefit under the state relief fund, will be obliged to levy a tax of not less than 30 cents on the $100 valuation at a special meeting of the town board to be held after July 1 and before August 1, members of the board of supervisors were informed this morning by Senator George C. Dixon. The entire morning session which ran well into the noon hour, was devoted to a hearing and discussion of the set up which is to replace the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Senator Dixon emphasized the fact that a concerted move had been made at Springfield to rid the state of the IERC, which he termed "a friendless body trying to run everybody else's business, but their own and employing case workers who would find it ordinarily difficult to find employment in local industries. The sooner we are rid of these, the better off all of us will be," he added.

The responsibility of the expenditure of the amounts to be pro-rated to the various counties for relief purposes from the sales tax fund, is yet to be decided, Dixon said. He favored an elected body to perform this function instead of a hand-picked group. In the course of his remarks, he praised the representatives of the Illinois Agricultural Association who have been busily engaged at Springfield in an effort to protect the downstate from the metropolitan or Cook county group.

Must Spend Local Fund

From the explanation of the legislation to be enacted into law, each township of the county desiring to receive state aid, will be obliged to call a special meeting of the town board after July 1, when the law becomes effective and before Aug. 1, and levy a tax of three cents on the one dollar valuation for this purpose. The fund realized from this levy must have become entirely exhausted before the township is entitled to realize from the state relief fund, it was explained. Townships failing to vote the 30 cent rate, will not be considered for state relief.

Supervisor Henry Knetsch expressed the opinion that the provisions of the proposed law would work a hardship on property and at the same time create a large fund for the state and he inquired the result of this. Senator Dixon replied that if such becomes the case, in all probability the sales tax would then be reduced.

The discussion had run through the noon hour when Assistant Supervisor Ed Stanley secured a second and moved that the board adjourn until 1 o'clock. Before a vote could be taken, Supervisor Charles Ramsdell of China township presented a written motion, asking immediate action, which provided that a chairman of the board be elected at the conclusion of the business to come before this session. While the China supervisor referred to his action as an economic measure, the motion further provided that the chairman be seated at a meeting on April 15 or after the primary election.

To Elect Chairman

Another discussion developed which led to the request for an opinion from State's Attorney Jones. The latter informed the board that the chairman was elected for a one year period, and that while his successor could be elected, he could not be officially seated until the term of the present incumbent had terminated. Supervisor Ramsdell then withdrew all mention of the time for seating the chairman and asked for a roll call vote on the subject of election of a chairman at this meeting.

Supervisor John Wagner of Ashton cast the only dissenting vote when the roll was called, but at the completion, asked that his vote be changed to make the roll call unanimously in favor of the China township supervisor's proposal.

It was expected that an effort would be made to close the business session of the board this afternoon, during which session the new chairman would be elected.

100-Foot Steel Flagpole Blown Off 13-Story Peoria Building; One Killed, One Fatally Hurt

Peoria, Ill., March 12—(AP)—A high wind blew a 100-foot steel flagpole from the 13-story Commercial Merchants National bank building at 10 A. M. today, killing one man and injuring two others seriously.

The pole, estimated to weigh more than a ton, fell from the roof when the wind tore it loose from its anchorage. Striking the sidewalk and street at one of the city's busiest intersections it broke into several pieces, which rebounded.

The dead man, crushed when one of the pieces fell across him,

"That's a Bet"

Washington, March 12—(AP)—A representative and a witness made a bet today during a hearing before the house District of Columbia committee on a bill to legalize horse race betting in Washington.

Walter E. O'Hara, owner of the Narragansett park race track in Rhode Island, testified the bill would produce about $750,000 in revenue annually. Questioning his figures, Representative Dirksen (R-Ill.) said: "I would like to bet a new hat that the revenue would not be more than half that."

Dirksen extended his hand to seal the agreement.

"All right," he said, "if this bill is passed."

FATHER-IN-LAW SEEKS CUSTODY OF INFANT BOY

Says Parents Both Agreed to His Guardianship

Chicago, Mar. 12—(AP)—Charges that pretty Juanita Borg, 19, neglected her baby boy were made in court today by Juanita's millionaire father-in-law, George W. Borg, seeking custody of the child.

Borg, chairman of the Borg Warner Corporation, said the dark-haired girl wife, who married his only son, George, "wouldn't look after the child" in the home he provided at Delavan, Wis.

Borg declared both his son and Juanita "agreed" to the guardianship under which he claimed he is entitled to the 15 months old boy, George Marshall Borg, Jr.

"I was astonished to find Juanita was neglecting the child in a manner I could hardly understand," Borg told Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg.

"She was gone during the day and many nights, leaving the child in the care of some youngsters on the farm."

Suggested Guardianship

"I found that she was not tending the child after the nursemaid left in the evenings. So I felt I ought to have something to say about the care, if I went on providing $400 to $500 a month, and I suggested I be made its legal guardian. Both parents agreed."

When "Nita," as he called his daughter-in-law, threatened to "take the child" her mother, Mrs. Frank Persons of Glenwood Springs, Colo., "tried to modify her attitude," Borg said. But the baby and mother "disappeared" March 4.

He then filed the habeas corpus proceedings on which today's hearing was held, Borg explained, because of his "responsibilities as guardian."

"I called her mother and asked her to come here, because Nita was just a child and I feared she might be under some influence," he explained.

Juanita's husband, just turned 21, sat with his father's attorneys. He was served with a summons in "Nita's" suit, filed this week for separate maintenance.

FRANCE HINTS AT LONE-HAND ACTION TODAY

Berlin Pronouncement Called "Bomb-shell" by Diplomats

The Associated Press

(Copyright, 1936 by)

London, March 12—A high source disclosed today that France has drawn up a virtual ultimatum to other Locarno treaty signatories hinting that single-handed action against Germany might be necessary if no agreement is reached in diplomatic discussions here.

This disclosure followed within two hours a German government announcement, issued in Berlin, that Reichsfuehrer Hitler would withdraw his recently offered peace proposals if other powers tried to force Germany to cede any of her sovereign rights.

Such sovereign rights, it was understood, included Germany's thesis that she could move troops wherever she chose in Germany.

Situation Grave

An authoritative source in Whitehall described this German pronouncement as "an absolute bomb-shell" which made "the situation now desperately grave."

It was indicated that the British position of mediator between Germany and France had become almost impossible without some gesture of conciliation on the part of Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

It was stated that the French delegation to the present conference of treaty signatories was ready to go back to Paris if no agreement was reached here.

The French were understood to be insisting absolutely on the removal of German troops from the Rhineland.

It was stated that they might attempt to close the German frontier in confidence that their military and natural strength was so great that Hitler eventually would be forced to yield on the Rhineland issue.

Seek Middle Course

British statesmen, conferring with the French, Belgians and Italians, sought to hold a middle course to preserve the peace.

The French, agreeing with the British desire of exploring all avenues toward a solution of the crisis, were said to base their agreement, however, on the contingency that Hitler remove his troops from the Rhine and place the Rhineland back on its demilitarized basis.

It was understood that the French were adamant over the principle involved in tearing up the Locarno treaty.

The fate of the Saturday session of the League of Nations Council was uncertain as the representatives of the foreign office.

Council Meet Unlikely

It was said there was little likelihood for the scheduled meeting at 11 A. M. Saturday if no agreement should be reached today. As a matter of fact, no council meeting of any sort will be held unless the Locarno powers agree to the course of action to be pursued concerning the Rhineland.

The French delegation was said to have informed the British:

1. France is ready to negotiate with Hitler the minute he moves his troops back from the Rhine;

2. The French are certain that if Hitler is allowed to go unpunished for the Rhineland incident he next will move into Austria and that would mean war, for the Little Entente of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania would not tolerate such an invasion and France would fight on the side of the Little Entente.

France Is Strong

3. The French are sure they could make Germany submit in the end for France today is not only one of the strongest military powers in the world but possesses sufficient financial resources to bring a pressure on Germany which that nation could not survive.

A French spokesman said: "We shall not discuss the peace proposal until the broken has been broken, those treaties are restored."

The British were understood to be taking the situation very seriously and being careful.

The British argument, it was said, was to change the French position.

The French spokesman: "We are not interested in Hitler's proposals as long as his troops stay on the Rhine."

TWO EDUCATIONS

By Joseph Fort Newton

JAMES Truslow Adams tells us that we need two educations, one to teach us how to make a living, the other to teach us how to live. Obviously, but they ought to be kept together, not put asunder.

Many a man makes a good living—he slaves and saves, works and worries, drives and drudges; but he does not make a life. Out of his rut, out of the grind he is helpless, and does not know how to live.

A reader tells me that her son-in-law, of whom she is fond, is just the other way. He neither slaves nor saves. He spends to the limit, and has a grand time—he is evidently interested in living.

It is like two men crossing a river. One is interested in crossing—in the sights, sounds and scents of the river. The other is interested in getting across—one is a poet, the other a man of fact.

In the parable of the Prodigal Son, as Jesus told it, there were two lost sons, not just one. One was lost through hot passion and wild living; the other was lost through dull, selfish respectability.

The prodigal took his money, went into a far country, wasted it in irregular living, and went on the rocks. Ragged, hungry, forlorn, he was a pitiful object when he came shuffling home a wreck.

The elder son stayed at home—stuck by the stuff as prim and proper as you please, but as hard as nails and so cold that one could skate all round him. No wonder his brother went away!

After all, perhaps we do not need two educations, but one well-rounded education to teach us to do two things—to make a living and make a life—and give us wit and wisdom enough to do both at once.

It is no good working to make a living, and putting off living until we get enough to live on. Else we may die without ever having lived at all.

If ever we have a sensible world, some men will not have to work their hands off to make a living, while others idle time away trying to live without working. Some time, somehow, things will be evened up.

Concert at Temple One of Exceptional Merit and Charm

In the series of high class concerts sponsored this winter by the White Shrine and the Eastern Star, the American Artists Association last evening presented at the Masonic Temple, two outstanding artists, Agnes McCay, soprano and the harpist, Marian Van Ness. We may say, three artists were presented, for Howard Silber, the accompanist, was a true artist of the piano forte, accompanying with accurate and beautiful expression.

The concert was given in the large lodge room upstairs in the Temple and the fair sized audience enjoyed every number as evidenced by the hearty applause, and the encore demanded.

Miss McCay possesses a delightfully sweet and true soprano voice combined with a lovely personality, and her singing was a delight from the operatic selections, to the more simple selections in the last group, she gave. Her voice has a rich and ringing timbre.

Miss Van Ness who made her first appearance on the stage at ten, quite captivated her audience last evening. She showed herself in possession of mature technique upon her difficult instrument. The harp gives forth tones which appeal directly to the heart and in Miss Van Ness, her thorough understanding of the instrument, combined with her beauty of expression, made listening to her a genuine musical treat.

Illinois Garden Show Is Now on Way To Completion

"The Dowager," writing in the Chicago Herald-Examiner says:

THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT of it . . . after what we heard yesterday at the "Flower Show luncheon," across a table bedecked with a hundred orchids, Spring is on the way! And the very first day March 21, we can go over to the Navy Pier and see such a display of blooming gardens, rocky glens and forest glades as only the Garden under one roof.

Thousands will go to see it and, perhaps, take all that loveliness, good taste and perfection of the whole thing for granted. But after listening to Mrs. O. W. Dynes, the real "mother" of the show, those of us who heard her will see behind all those beautifully dovelaid exhibits something of the travail of a whole year of planning.

A Man-sized Job

From the very first business of getting the architects (Boyd Hills and Walter Frazier's) plans of the setting, to selling space and advertising . . . with all the details of dealing with the exhibitors from some 2000 garden clubs . . . down to such trivialities as insuring the lives of a flock of pigeons to fill a dovecote, the whole thing is a man-sized job. And to produce such magnificent results that other cities ask for advice on their flower shows deserves something more than the gratitude of garden lovers.

For months birch saplings have been standing in tubs waiting to be planted on the pier, so that they'll be in leafy leaf . . . cuttings of Virginia creeper and bittersweet, to say nothing of quantities of forsythia and all the spring flowers, are being forced in hundreds of greenhouses, to be at exactly the stage of perfection to produce the illusion of an "Illinois Spring" . . . the leitmotif of the show.

Trucks of rocks from the Rock river district will be brought up to make the rock walls at the entrance, down which a thirty-foot waterfall will trickle under the moss and the wild flowers. There'll be four kinds of gardens . . . the pioneer frontier garden around log cabins . . . the city garden . . . the suburban garden . . . and a segment of the kind that surround great country estates.

The Garden Club of America is putting up a French regency house. Six garden clubs will produce village market squares. Vegetable and flower garden pictures (reproducing old English prints; smartly set dinner and buffet tables; flowers arranged in vases; and, of course, one great display of greenhouse flowers from the Warren Wright's estate. These are a few of the high lights of the show.

And responsible for arranging all this are the women who give so much of themselves and their time . . . most of whom were at the "press luncheon" yesterday.

Mrs. Dynes, who keeps regular office hours at headquarters and smooths all ruffled waters; Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker of Winnetka; Mrs. George Plamondon of Wheaton; Mrs. Willard Jacques, Mrs. Howard Countryman of Rockford; Mrs. William L. Karcner, who takes a train at 5:30 in the morning from Freeport to be on her job these days.

Mrs. Euclid Snow of Hinsdale; Mrs. Raymond Knotts, who comes in from Berwyn to do the publicity; Mrs. L. T. Warren of Elmhurst.

Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, among the missing yesterday, sent greetings from Palm Beach. Mrs. John T. Pirie, so chic in her new Spring bonnet with the red flowers on it; Mrs. Lawrence Scudder; Mrs. Charles Kingsley; Mrs. Daniel Kissman; Mrs. George M. Kendall; Mrs. Dan Workman; Mrs. McStay Jackson; Mrs. Mark Cresap, another of the art directors, off in Honolulu, but home for the last days of the show . . . these are the spirits behind what will be the 1936 flower show.

The St. James Aid Society met with Mrs. Edith Bothe with Mrs. Anna Bothe and Mrs. Gertie Breimer assisting.

Sixteen members and several visitors enjoyed the delicious picnic dinner at noon, the hostess serving roast pork and dressing.

At 2 o'clock the meeting was called to order with all singing

STAGNATED AND PROGRESSIVE INDUSTRY

When the railroad problem came up to the New Deal a law was passed creating the office of federal coordinator, and the legislation looked toward consoli-dations in order that railways might reduce expenses and more of them keep out of bankruptcy. Just as it appeared that some measure of relief was to be applied to these suffering organizations, an amendment was hitched to the bill, providing that consolidations should not reduce the number of persons employed.

It was like the woman who told her daughter she could go out to swim, but not to go near the water.

Consolidation without reduction of labor might as well not be made at all so far as effecting economy is concerned, and economy was the end in view of the legislation.

That was nearly three years ago, and the economies the government started out to make for railways to keep them out of bankruptcy have not materialized.
The only project that has neared completion is consolidation of principal terminals, located in fourteen cities.
It can not be carried out with any gain without reduction of the number of employees. On that issue the American Association of Railroads and the Association of Railway Labor Executives are in a disagreement and Federal Coordinator Eastman, who proposed the consolidation as a representative of the government is without power to effect the change.

President Roosevelt entered the situation with a letter addressed to the organizations concerned. After noting that the act creating the office of coordinator will terminate June 16, he said the controversy is one that may be adjusted better by negotiation than by legislation and gave his reasons for so thinking.

"If they do not agree and legislation is sought as the only solution, I fear harm to the railroad industry," he wrote, and added:
"All this can be avoided if the contending parties will confer with each other in a spirit of reasonableness and moderation. The employees ought not to forget what they will gain if the railroads can progress as transportation agencies and what they will lose if the railroads retrogress. They ought to bear in mind that the principle of protecting employees against undue hardship from economy projects is only beginning to gain ground. It is not as yet applied by most industries, nor by the other transportation agencies, nor even by the government.

"The railroad industry has always taken the lead in the establishment of good working conditions and labor relations, but it can not safely get too far in advance of the procession. Nor ought the employees overlook the fact that if unnecessary railroad costs are not avoided, much desirable work that creates employment may not be undertaken. This has happened in maintenance work especially, and may easily happen again."

Railways are going from a bad stage to a worse one, because they are tied hand and foot by federal laws.
They are not allowed to reduce expenses except in limited ways and always only under approval of some governmental agency.

In contrast with that stagnation, we may witness the progress made in the motor industry, which creates the competition for the railways. With reference to the economic principles involved, Senator Borah recently portrayed the situation as follows:

"The people get the benefit of a better article at lower prices; and the channels of trade remain open to those who may still further produce better articles at lower prices.

"This principle has been well illustrated by the motor vehicle industry. When the depression was at its worst this industry was at its best in many ways. Its engineering and experimental departments took on new life. They did not get together and agree on prices for the same old cars. They did not come to the congress begging for subsidies. They devoted their efforts to solving their problems in the open field of competition. The result was the companies won out and the people got better cars at lower prices. Under a monopolistic regime, under a price-fixing agreement, under a price-fixing combine the companies might have pulled through, but the public would have been riding around in the same old singing "lizzie" at perhaps a higher price. It is in the field of competition that industry and genius win, and the people get the benefit of the victory.

"No business has been so superior to its competitors in the process of manufacture or of distribution as to enable it to control the market solely by reason of its superiority. There are no natural monopolies in the industrial world."

When it was sought to stand the people up and shake them down on the theory that transportation was a monopoly, it worked to the extent that transportation was a monopoly.

Then came the circumvention of this monopoly.
First by passenger automobiles, then by trucks, then by omnibuses, and then by waterways.

The railways have their rates and the other transportation systems are getting their traffic.

That wouldn't be anything other than the natural working of economic laws, except for the maladjustment it has created in economic forces. It is largely accountable for the maladjustment that we are turning all our governmental power to cure.

You may note that the declared aim is to place agriculture on a parity with its exchange values of the period of 1909-14, after which freight rates were increased successively up to 100 percent, with only a 10 percent reduction in the post-war deflation of 1922.

All the crazy and the dishonest things that have been done in Washington have been done to cure the situation without facing the thing that really is the matter, outrageous freight rates, which are ruining agriculture and the railways at the same time.

Mrs. John Loftus and daughter,
Mrs. Frank Keame, Mrs. Thomas Burke and Genevieve and Frances Lally of Dixon, were also here.

Britain Won't Ask U.
S. To Protect Its
American Holdings

London, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin answered in the negative when he was questioned in the House of Commons as to whether Great Britain would ask the United States if it was bound to defend Canada and the British possessions of America from foreign attack.

William Leach, labor party member of parliament, asked the prime minister whether he would ask the United States for assurance "that by their interpretation of the Monroe doctrine they will hold themselves bound to intervene to defend Canada, British Guiana, and the Falkland Islands from armed attack by any power or group of powers?"

Baldwin answered: "No, sir."
Leach then inquired whether Baldwin would "reconsider his answer in view of the beneficial results a favorable reply might have on defense proposals?"

To this question Baldwin did not reply.

THE TINYMITES
Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The daffodil danced 'round and 'round and turned some flipflops on the ground. Cried Duncy, "I can do that, too. Just watch, and you will see."

He took a long run, then a jump, and landed on the ground kerthump. The daffodil just smiled and said, "You're funny as can be."

"However, your flip was a flop.
If you use good sense, you will stop. The first thing that you know, son, you will hurt a leg or arm."

"I do these stunts and never spill, because I am a daffodil. You have to be real daffy, or you'll always come to harm."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Scouty. "He should do such clever flips as well as you. He surely is a daffy lad.
He's always been that way."

"Oh, yeah?" Duncy cried. "Well, no more will that stunt be tried.
You always ridicule me, so I've finished for today."

Once more the daffodil danced
'round and then she shouted, "I am bound for some place in the forest where it's cool and not too dry."

"You see, that's where I grow the best. In such a spot I'm going to rest." Then, as she ran away, she bid the Tinymites good-by.

Just then a little frog hopped near and Goldy shouted, "Look who's here." "Hello," exclaimed the little frog. "You'd like a thrill, no doubt."

"Right near, some water lilies grow. Now, if you will be patient,
I will call some of them out."

The frog then croaked. My, what a sound. The puzzled Tinies looked around. "Here come the water lilies, now," they heard the Dotty scream.

Out to a dock one lily ran. It didn't even stop to scan the water all around, but promptly jumped into the stream.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

"The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing."

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

PROPER AGING

Tobacco in its natural state is harsh and strong.
Though "cured" by the grower before sale,
it is unsuited for use without further aging.
During this aging period (which ranges in the case of Lucky Strike from 1½ to 3 years) important changes occur. These "Nature" changes result in the partial "smoothing out" of the original harsh qualities of the leaf.
Our process of manufacture carries these improvements many steps further—as every Lucky Strike Cigarette exemplifies:
A Light Smoke of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!
Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

ould be free, vote and worship God in accordance with his own conscience.

Today we are confronted with an arbitrary government which would dictate to us just what we should do in managing our business, in spending our money and in rearing our children. There is only one way I can see to prevent total destruction of business, agriculture and the industries of this nation. That is, to elect a Republican President, a Republican House of Representatives and gain as many United States Senators as possible. This can only be done by the harmonious action of all the factions of the Republican party working shoulder to shoulder to make the next election a Republican victory.

"The administration believes the way to bring back prosperity is to continually pyramid the debt, both public and private in this country. The President of the United States has been maneuvered into this position and I do not believe he knows what it is all about.

Roosevelt's Fremont Speech. "President Roosevelt in his Fremont speech paints a rosy picture to the farmer. It seems to me he had adopted the old McNary-Caugen bill a great many of us in Congress fought and voted for the farmer would be in a much better condition than he is today. Under the present formula the farmer has been unable to accumulate any degree of prosperity and it has been a great hardship upon the pocketbooks of those that have to buy.

Frank Lowden's Formula. "I am following Frank O. Lowden's formula to help the farmer because I believe he knows more about the agriculture situation in one minute than Mr. Wallace does in one year. Mr. Lowden's formula I believe is correct; he proposes, 'The government could make grants to the states. The states would pay bounties to the farmers for removing 25 to 30 per cent of their acreage from production. The staffs of the state agricultural colleges would administer the program.' With that kind of a distribution of the money we would be able to get rid of a large per cent of the high priced executives that are now using the money that should go to the farmers.

"Besides, the Congress of the United States should pass a high tariff on all classes of farm products such as blackstrap molasses, kaffir lime, and all products that conflict with agriculture, including livestock. Blackstrap molasses takes the place of corn in the manufacture of alcohol which is being used for commercial purposes and destroys the use of forty million bushels of American corn per year. In addition to that a mixture of from 2 to 10 per cent of alcohol in gasoline would be useful in using up all the surplus corn in the United States.

Foreign Trade Balance. "For the first time in forty years our trade balance is in favor of foreign nations. In other words, we are buying more from foreign countries than they are buying from us. This is due to the fact that owing to the Roosevelt policy of curtailing production food prices have reached such a high level that foreign nations can ship their food products to the United States at a profit. We are called upon to view the distorted picture, whereby the taxpayers' money is used to pay bonuses to farmers for not raising food products, and in turn sending the consumers' money to aid and support farmers in foreign countries. It certainly took

DRIVING AT TWILIGHT

Records from a score of cities prove that the most dangerous time of the day for both pedestrians and motorists is at dusk. During the twilight hours there is neither enough daylight nor sufficient artificial light to make objects distinguishable at ordinary distances.

This is the hour, too, when motorists are most likely to find children playing in the streets.

No matter how carefully you drive, exert just a little extra caution during this most dangerous time of the day.

a college professor to think up that one.

Railroad Relief. "I have suggested another plan of government spending which I believe will be of some good to all of us. The railroad systems of the country belong to us because they form an integral and important part of our national necessities. They need our help. I submit this proposition for your consideration. I submit that the government appropriate a large sum, say two or three billions of dollars which would be placed in the treasuries of the railroads of the United States as an outright gift with few strings attached.

"This money would be paid out for hand labor in rehabilitating the tracks of the railroad systems. The railroad companies would purchase the necessary materials and the federal aid would be utilized solely for paying the workers.

"Instead of boom-doggling by raking leaves, building hospitals for dogs, hauling piles of sand from one spot to another, let the country realize some real benefit, by rebuilding the railroad tracks. It would be an accomplishment that would be worth while, resulting in a necessary improvement as well as furnishing employment.

The last session of congress, in nine months, appropriated ten billions of dollars for the continuation of the Roosevelt policy. It is said that this is as much money as was expended to run this government for the first 100 years of its existence.

This money is to be drained from the diminishing coffers of all classes of industry, including agriculture. It is to be used for so-called relief projects, which will never return one penny of income. In other words, this life blood of industry has been taken out of circulation where it was used to nourish and feed millions of industrial workers, to be expended in such a manner that it will never return to its former earning power. It is to be taken out of circulation largely through the income method of taxation, which means that this tax is not to be levied against those who have already accumulated, but against those who, each year, try to accumulate. It means, Ladies and Gentlemen, that every man who is earning an income will have to stand this burden of taxation—the business man, the laborer and the farmer will all be called upon to contribute, and if this blind Roosevelt policy of extravagance and waste should be continued another four years, I can see every business man having two pay-rolls—one pay-roll will represent the amount of money he subtracts each pay day from each individual employee and mails to the government tax collector. The other pay-roll represents the money left in the pay envelope after the money has been taken out to carry on the Roosevelt New Deal program.

Some people have kidded themselves into believing that this distribution of wealth plan means taking the large fortunes that have been accumulated in the country, such as that of Morgan or Rockefeller, and distributing this money among those who have not been fortunate enough to accumulate property. What it actually means is this, the farmer with 400 acres of land will be told that 400 acres is too much for one man to own, and he will have to divide it up among people that do not have any land. So, you can see this is a very dangerous procedure and may work a hardship on those people believing it is a good thing. There can be no question but what we are facing the most critical period of our national life. In 1861, the question before the country, appalling as it was, was simply the division of the government. The question before us today is the proposed annihilation of the system which has made this the greatest nation in the world.

These Braintrusters at Washington are running this government into debts that the generations yet unborn will have to pay. The young men and women of this nation should stop, look and listen. The tax burden will have to be shouldered by the young men, women and children because the older ones will be gone. If we continue to spend as we are today, in another four year period the government will owe one hundred billion dollars and it must be paid by taxes.

Let the Republicans join the hands of friendship with every faction to take an equal part in the coming election. Let us run up the old flag.

"Your Flag and my Flag,
and Oh, how much it holds!
Your land and my land
Secure within its folds!
Your heart and my heart
Beat quicker at the sight,
Sun-kissed and wind-tossed,
The red, the blue, and white!
The one flag, the great flag,
The flag for me and you,
Glorified all else besides
The red, and white, and blue!
Then,
"Let us rally 'round the flag,
We'll rally once again,
Shouting the Battle Cry of Freedom!"

"We will rally from the hillside,
We will gather from the plain;
Shouting the Battle Cry of Freedom!"

Traffic Patrolman James Hunt of Portland, Ore., offered a lift to two youths, who slugged him and robbed him of his revolver and $45.

DAILY HEALTH

ESSENTIAL HYPERTENSION

Essential hypertension is a type of high blood pressure for which there appears to be no adequate warrant in the physiology of the body.

Recent research, however, throws some suspicion on the glands of internal secretion and implicates them as a possible cause of essential hypertension. Certain secretions of the pituitary (located at the base of the brain), the suprarenals (above the kidneys), the thyroid, as well as a certain secretion from the pancreas, act through the autonomic nervous system, the first three to elevate and the pancreas to lower blood pressure.

The most recent work showing the intimate relationship of the endocrine system (glands of internal secretion) to the nervous system indicates how the nerves may affect the glands of internal secretion and the glands of internal secretion may further affect the circulatory system and blood pressure.

Essential hypertension is known to "run in families." Also, it is found more commonly among those who are driven hard, who work and play fast.

To deal effectively with essential hypertension, it must be "taken in hand" early. When the susceptible individual is still without symptoms, except for an occasional and temporary elevation of blood pressure, he should be taught to avoid excesses of all sorts, especially of tobacco, alcohol, long hours of work and late nights.

Nine hours in bed on five nights a week will conserve his strength. Hard physical exercise will help lower his blood pressure. Lessening of the wear and tear to which he is exposed in his work is essential. Body weight should be kept down.

And this is of appreciable value in most of these cases—the sufferer should be given a course of mental therapy. This will serve for one thing to eliminate as far as possible avoidable and unnecessary worry, and for another to teach him the art of living.

FRANCE ACTS TO COMPLETE NEW ACCORD

Plans Alliances Providing 40,000,000 Armed Soldiers

(Copyright, 1936 by The Associated Press)

Paris, March 12—France, dropping official hints that she might prefer a "preventive war" with Nazi Germany now to "carnage" later, hastened today to cement a chain of military alliances which would place a potential army of 40,000,000 men at her disposal.

A possible allied army of that magnitude was disclosed in new, if unofficial, figures to be based on an alliance of France, Soviet Russia, the Little Entente and Poland, and to embrace:

1—For 48-hour mobilization: 8,000,000 men.

2—Additional trained reserves: 31,000,000 men.

3—Eight thousand airplanes.

4—A million tons of warships.

The new military calculations were made as Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin, at London, brandished the threat of French withdrawal from the League of Nations to compel Great Britain to join in chastising Adolf Hitler for his armed march to the Rhine.

At home, the French Senate took up the question of final parliamentary ratification of the Franco-Soviet mutual assistance pact.

It was this far-reaching treaty which the German Fuehrer blamed for nullifying the treaty of Locarno and causing remilitarization of the Rhineland. It is the last step in forging an "iron ring around the Reich," extending from the English Channel to Asia and the Arctic Ocean.

Events of the past week having fostered a tremendous sentiment in France in favor of the pact, the senate was expected to lose no time in approving it by an overwhelming vote.

The first category of the "paper army", troops which could be mobilized within 48 hours, was reckoned approximately thus:

Approximate Forces

France, 1,000,000 men; Russia, 3,000,000; Poland, 1,000,000; Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, 800,000 or more each.

In the second category were placed these trained reserves:

France, 7,000,000; Russia, 17,000,000; Poland, 2,000,000; Rumania, 1,000,000; Yugoslavia, 1,700,000; Czechoslovakia, 1,600,000.

As for airplanes France was listed as able to furnish 2,400; Russia, 3,000; Yugoslavia, 800; Poland, 700; Czechoslovakia, 600 and Rumania, 500.

Flandin, attending the renewed Locarno conversations in London, was represented by French officials to be "almost convinced" that a "preventive war" now would be preferable to "carnage two years from now." At that time, it was felt,

"treaty breakers" will be powerful. "We know war is coming in two years anyway," said one informed personage. "We might as well have it now, while we are prepared. The only way Hitler's troops will leave the Rhineland is for the Locarno signatories to drive them out, but a stitch in time saves nine."

"Worthless Treaties"

Another authoritative source, backing up the threat of withdrawal from Geneva, declared: "Other powers whose policies are based on collective security and who are determined to support the French and Belgian stand before the League of Nations have informed us that, if the treaties seemed worthless, they will not hesitate to quit the league."

Diplomats believed the reference was to the Soviet Union and the Little Entente.

Ratification of the Franco-Soviet pact, already approved by the Chamber of Deputies and the senate foreign affairs committee, will be the signal for the general staffs of the two nations to go to work coordinating their military systems against a possible German attack.

A proposed $50,000,000 franc loan to the Soviet Union for the repair of Russia's western frontier railroads and highways, is still pending in parliament.

NEW GERMAN THREAT

Berlin, March 12—(AP)—The German government declared today that if any attempts should be made to demand of Germany that she renounce any of her sovereign rights, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's peace offers must be considered withdrawn.

In a statement issued publicly, the government said:

"Should our conception that the only pacification of Europe is built upon voluntary decisions and actions of equal European states and peoples not find acceptance by other governments, the German government will, of course, withdraw its proposals and, resting upon the dependability and the historic will in appreciation of sacrifice of the German people, from now on rather choose honorable isolation than to live as a nation discriminated against in the community of others."

An official declaration was issued replying to "various press reports and the utterances of foreign statesmen."

Hold Pact Not Needed

The declaration was chiefly calculated to show that France was so heavily armed and had so many allies and guarantors for her security that the Franco-Soviet pact was both unnecessary and unjustifiable.

The declaration charged that if France still fears for her security, despite the Locarno pact, "the French government should at least have reported that fact previously to the powers of the Locarno pact in order to attempt either to build this new measure for security into the Locarno pact itself or at least to bring it completely into line with it."

The statement charged that France massed troops on the German border and built formidable fortresses there.

"All military authorities," the declaration continued, "agreed that, humanly speaking, an attack against this system of forts was hopeless. As Germany had no aggressive intentions against France, it raised no objections."

WAVE OF CIVIL WAR SPREADING THROUGH SPAIN

Attempt to Kill Noted Educator Fails; Policeman Killed

Madrid, March 12—(AP)—A police guard was shot and killed today during a daring but unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Prof. Luis Jimenez Asua, one of the leading Socialists of Spain.

The attempted assassination was part of the bitter warfare between Rightists and Leftists which is spreading through Spain in a vast conflagration.

Policeman Gisbert, bodyguard for Professor Jimenez, was hit by five bullets when he interposed himself as a shield in front of the Socialist deputy. He died in a hospital. Jimenez was unhurt.

A Fascist student, Emilio Bellon, died today of wounds he received Tuesday. He was the second student to die in the present disorders.

Shot From Automobile

A group of four or five men opened fire on the professor from an automobile as he was departing from his home to go to his law classes at the Madrid University. Jimenez rushed back into the house, uninjured, despite the hail of 20 shots which rained about him and his escort.

The assailants' car sped off without police being able to overtake it.

The under-current of "civil war" between Rightists and Leftists, arising from the Leftist election victory and assumption of government power, persisted with both sides accusing the other of instigating the disorders. More than 50 persons have been killed.

Many Churches Burned.

The wave of church burnings, which marked the outbreaks in southern Spain, crept nearer the capital with the burning of a church at Butrago, 40 miles from Madrid.

This, coupled with disorders in the suburbs of Valencia, led authorities to redouble their precautions in the capital, which has been comparatively free thus far from trouble.

Convents, churches and religious schools were under heavy guard, with many nuns, dressed in ordinary clothes, ready to leave if necessary.

The government, meanwhile, moved to satisfy Leftist cries for vengeance on the officers whose activities in suppression of the October, 1934, revolt were outstanding.

Gen. Lopez Ochoa and Maj. Anillo Tello of the civil guards were imprisoned at Guadalupe to await trial on charges of cruelty and illegal measures in suppressing the revolt.

THE REPEATER

The accident "repeater" so-called, is an unfortunate person who doesn't seem to be satisfied with just one accident. His is usually a medical or a psychiatric case. He is a vertebrae glutton for punishment and the frequent accident jolts apparently fail to shake him loose from the shackles of carelessness.

Repeaters among motorists are extremely common. Investigations made by certain commercial concerns during recent years reveal that the few drivers have the most accidents. Five, six or eight crashes have not been uncommon while in one case a certain victim lived through thirteen smash-ups.

There are repeaters among road hogs, weavers and other chance takers; among speeders and drinking drivers. Underlying causes of accident proneness may include worry, fatigue, poor health, chronic drowsiness, hysteria, incompetency, poor reaction time, melancholia, etc.

Where correction of such conditions is possible, accident proneness is often cured. Where causes cannot be remedied employers have wisely changed the occupations of their men.

PHILS BECOME PITCHER TEAM THIS SEASON

Manager Wilson Is Fed Up On Team of Sluggers

Winter Haven, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Old customers are going to rub their eyes and take another look at their ticket stubs when they watch the Philadelphia Nationals in action this year.

The Phillies, for years a boon to the lumber business as they battered down National League fences a mile from home plate, have gone in so strong for pitching that they threaten to become "hitless wonders"—hard as it is to believe.

Manager Jimmy Wilson, who admits he's a little fed up with a team of sluggers that loses games by football scores, won't have more than one or two sure .300 hitters on the team but he's so excited about his pitchers that he thinks his 1936 machine is capable of landing high in the second division at least.

"Big Seven" Pitchers
Wilson's probable "Big Seven" pitching staff will consist of six who have had at least one year's experience in the major leagues and a rookie, Hal Hellecher of Hazelton, Pa., a six foot right hander.

The six are Curt Davis, Joe Bowman, Bucky Walters (Bucky's dropped the "s" from his last name this year), Euel Moore, Sylvester Johnson and Orville Jorgens.

Last season, the Phils rarely had more than two regular pitchers well enough to start a game, winding up in seventh place.

The infield rates strong defensively but weak on offense. Dolph Camilli, whose power was reduced by sinus trouble last year, is a fixture at first with Jose Gomez at second and Johnny Vergez, on the bench at present with a sprained ankle, at third.

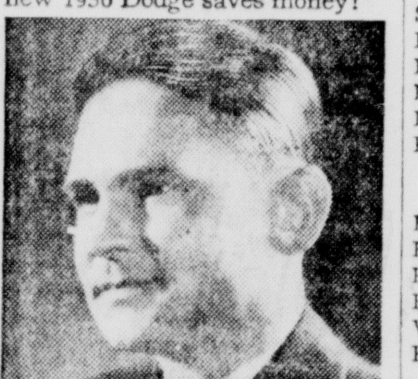

Shortstop is the big problem, but Wilson is strong for Leo Norris ob-

One of the most surprising discoveries I've made is the way my new 1936 Dodge saves money!

It gives me 19 to 20 miles to the gallon of gas consistently in city driving and as high as 22 miles out in the country.

At the same time, this Dodge certainly saves on oil. Excepting for regular changes, I've had to add no oil at all.

There are no more Chuck Kleins in the Philly outfield but there should be plenty of speed and defensive class. Lou Chiozza, converted from an infielder, is starting in the daily drills.

Catching apparently is well fortified with Wilson, himself, and Earl Grace, who says he never was given a real chance to learn much about backstopping until Pittsburgh sent him under Wilson's wing.

Moline Shatters Erie Hopes 51-21; Harlem is Winner Over Streator

Other Sectional Favorites Are Victorious

Chicago, March 12.—(AP)—Thirty-two more teams had only an academic interest in the Illinois high school basketball title situation today, the result of the first round of play in the sectional tournaments.

Nothing startling in the way of upsets turned up last night on the 16 fronts and comparatively few battles were decided by close scores. Moline, entertaining a home crowd, blew Erie out of action, 51 to 21, for the biggest total of the night, and no winner failed to score 20 or more points.

Edwardsville whipped Jerseyville, 42 to 15, at Gillespie, Peoria Manual walloped Appleton, 41 to 14, at Peoria, while Waltonville eliminated Trenton, 40 to 12, at East St. Louis.

Joliet Beat Farragut
Joliet, the only one of the ranking favorites to see action, got away to a victorious start by eliminating one of Chicago's four entrants, Farragut, 38 to 28, at Joliet. Two other Chicago fives, Crane and New Phillips, got by their opening tests without difficulty.

Crane trounced Deerfield-Shields, 40 to 22, in the Libertyville tournament, and New Phillips spoiled hometown interest in the Kankakee sectional by eliminating Kankakee high, 37 to 23.

Only two games were decided by margins as small as two points, and but one by a single point, Clay City outpointed Teutopolis, 23 to 22, at Mattoon, Harlem of Rockford, conquered Streator, 28 to 26 at DeKalb, and Litchfield bounced Whitehall to the sidelines at Gillespie, 28 to 26.

Dixon High's—

UY, and after Evans and Rebeck had given Dixon a commanding 9-3 lead, Benetone, L-P's all-state guard, dropped in a basket from the free throw alley. The half ended just after Rebeck had added another Dixon goal making the count 10-5 in favor of the locals.

L-P's close defensive game kept the big siege guns of Dixon's team pretty well in hand but the locals continued to head the Cavaliers during the third quarter without being seriously threatened by a strong rally. Bob Krug hardly delivered several arching shots from near midfloor on occasions when the points were most needed and the team continued to click on their free throw chances making four out of seven attempts. The Cavaliers trailed 16 to 7 in the first few minutes of the second half but gradually closed the gap to 19-14 at the end of the third stanza.

L-P made several futile tries at the basket, innumerable easy shots failing to connect.

In the fourth quarter close officiating piled so many fouls on the locals' heads that it appeared L-P would be able to win the game by a free throw rally. Bob Krug was removed from the game with four personals and Klein piled up three before the game was ended.

"Toughy" Miller, subbing for Krug, did a sterling job however and his free throw when fouled by Schott in the last minute of play steadied the locals enough to keep their narrow margin safe.

Next Game Friday
As a result of victory Dixon now meets the winner of the DePue-Hampshire game Friday night in the semi-finals at 9 P. M. DePue and Hampshire meet in the second bracket of the first round tonight.

Bowling Tourny's Second 600 Score Rolled Last Eve

Indianapolis, March 12.—(AP)—The first games in the doubles and singles and four full squads of teams absorbed the attention of the American Bowling Congress today as the tournament went into the fourth day.

Chief among the five-man combinations was another group of youngsters and 32 teams of Big Four railroad employees.

The tourny's second 600 and highest individual game here recorded during last night's play, Jim Hollebaugh cracked 621 for Polk Milk. Matt Pohl and Harry Fox deadlocked at 242 for solo honors.

Widow Weakened in Suicide Intention

Chicago.—(AP)—Wednesday was the day Mrs. J. T. Baskett, 74-year-old widow, planned to kill herself because she was "hungry and cold and owed so much back rent."

She sat by the cold stove in her flat unaware that a police squad was racing to stop her.

The squad was sped out in answer to a frantic appeal from Mrs. Raitlon James, of Decatur, Ill. She told Decatur police of receiving a letter in Wednesday's mail in which Mrs. Baskett, her grandmother, set the day for suicide.

The Decatur police notified the Chicago detective bureau, which dispatched Des Plaines street police. When they arrived Mrs. Baskett was sitting calmly by the stove.

"I had the poison in my hand, but I guess I got ashamed," police said she told them. "I threw it in the fire. I'll write my granddaughter and tell her I changed my mind."

Sarazen-Hines In Combine Against Revolta - Picard

Miami, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen and Jimmy Hines staked their golf wizardry today against the sensational shooting of Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard, defending titlists, in the 6-hole final of the twelfth annual international four-ball matches.

Having staved off yesterday the great rally of those two battling Scotsmen, Tommy Armour and Bobby Cruickshank, Sarazen and Hines were given about an even chance to halt the march of Revolta and Picard, 1935 winners, to their second straight title.

Miss Hemphill rallied to an upset victory to win her semi-finals berth from Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews. Mrs. Crews was leading three up at the 12th green but the South Carolina girl won the 12th and 13th and captured the 17th and 18th to win.

FAMOUS EYE SPECIALIST DIED TODAY

Dr. William H. Wilmer
Pioneer in His Science

Washington, March 12.—(AP)—Dr. William Holland Wilmer, 73, nationally known eye specialist, died today at his home here.

A pioneer in the study of diseases of the eye, Dr. Wilmer was as noted for equal treatment of both rich and poor among his patients as for his skill, which was world-famous. Among his patients were royalty and presidents of the United States, as well as numbers of poor and unemployed persons unable to pay anything for their treatment.

One of his most noted patients was King Prajadhipok of Siam. The king was examined by Dr. Wilmer in 1931 preliminary to an operation for a cataract on his eye which was removed by Dr. John M. Wheeler of New York.

Dr. Wilmer treated several presidents, among them Theodore Roosevelt, and many other famous men, including Viscount Gray of Faldoun and Sir Auckland Geddes, former British ambassador to the United States.

Pioneered in War
Besides his long practice in civilian eye diseases, Dr. Wilmer pioneered during the World War in the field of testing the eyes of would-be fliers to learn whether they could stand the strain of air service. Later he was surgeon in charge of the medical research laboratories of the A. E. F. in France.

Perhaps the outstanding event of Dr. Wilmer's career was the realization of his hope for establishment in this country of an institution for the furtherance of research in ophthalmology.

In 1922 a group of his patients and other friends, recognizing the desire for a wider scope for his activities, formed the William Holland Wilmer Foundation. This foundation, in co-operation with the Rockefeller Foundation and the Commonwealth Fund, raised nearly $4,000,000 for the erection and endowment of the Wilmer Ophthalmological Institute in connection with Johns Hopkins University and the university hospital at Baltimore, Md.

Unique Institution
At the time of its establishment it was the only institution in the world offering an opportunity for the study of every phase of ophthalmology. It was placed under direction of Dr. Wilmer, and in addition to its research work on eye diseases and its clinical treatment, the institute provided for the education of American ophthalmologists who previously had been obliged to study abroad. He remained as director until 1934, when he returned to private practice in Washington, D. C., where he began his medical career.

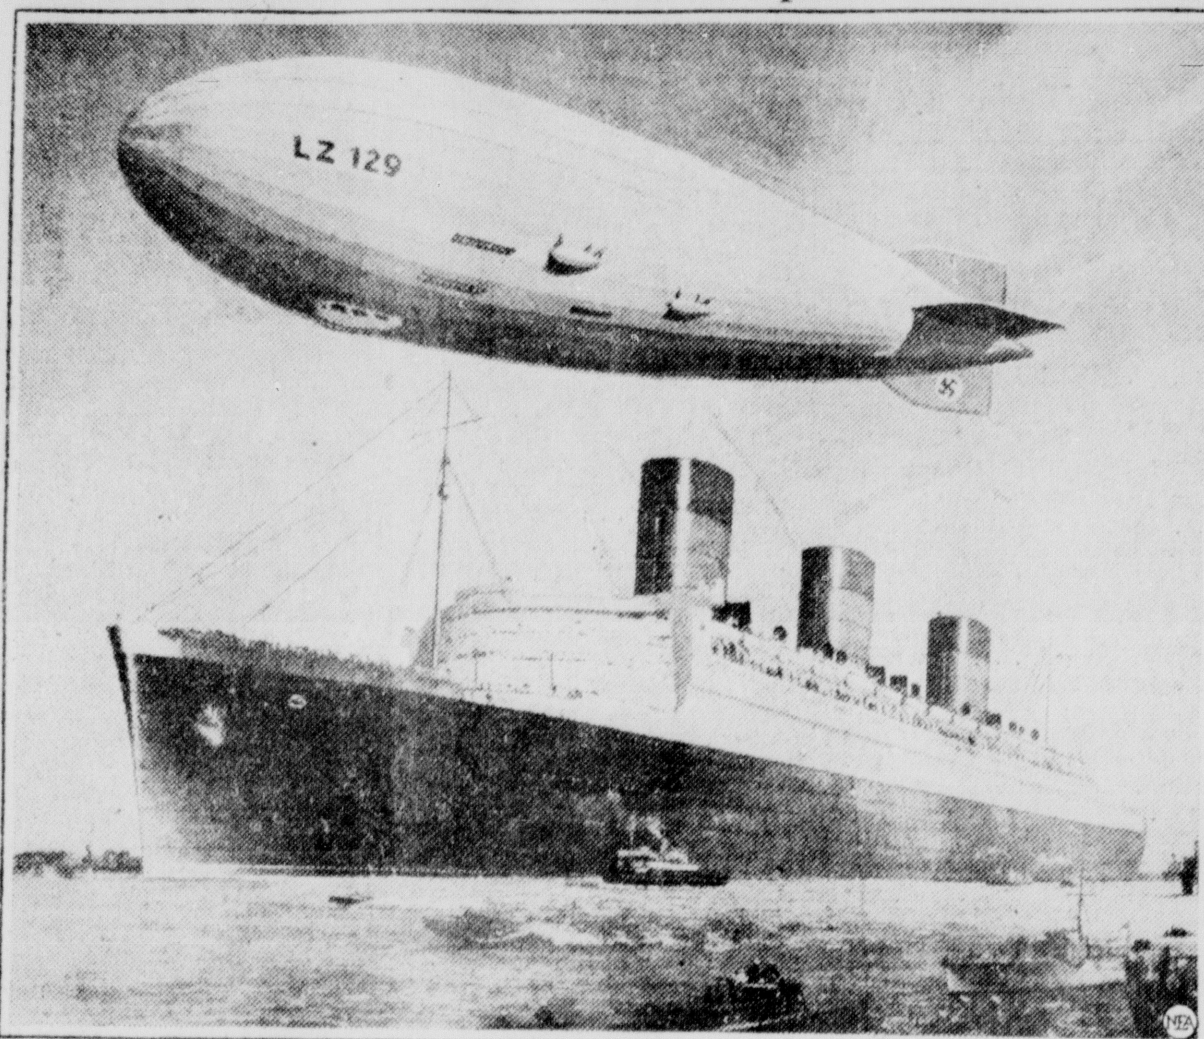

Dr. Wilmer was the son of the Rt. Rev. Richard H. Wilmer, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Alabama. He was born in Powhatan county, Virginia, August 26, 1863, and took his M.D. degree at the University of Virginia in 1885. After study at various hospitals in New York and abroad, he served on the staffs of the New York Polyclinic and Bellevue hospitals. In 1891 he married Re Lewis Smith of Pennsylvania. They had a daughter and two sons.

Dr. Wilmer began to practice at Washington in 1889, continuing there, except for the World War years, until 1925. He was professor of ophthalmology at Georgetown University from 1906 to 1925.

He already was a lieutenant in the medical corps reserve of the army when the World War broke out. He immediately was commissioned a major on active service. He was in charge of the medical research laboratories of the air service at Mineola, L. I., until August, 1918, when he went to France to become head of the medical laboratories of the army overseas.

Officially Honored
He was awarded the distinguished service medal of the United

A new giant of the air and a new giant of the seas will make transportation history this spring, when Germany's mammoth Zeppelin, the LZ-129, to be known as the Von Hindenburg, first crosses the North Atlantic from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., and the Queen Mary, England's superliner, speeds on her maiden voyage across the Atlantic from Southampton to New York. A striking idea of the immensity of the monarch of the air and the queen of the seas and their comparative sizes is given in the composite picture above.

States in 1919, and was made a commander of the French Legion of Honor in 1924. He left the army with the rank of brigadier general in the army medical corps reserve. Dr. Wilmer served on the board of directors of the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, the Advisory Committee for the Prevention of Hereditary Blindness, and several other organizations. He was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the American Medical Association, the Washington Academy of Sciences, and many other medical and scientific organizations. He wrote extensively on ophthalmological topics and medical aviation.

Many stories were told of Dr. Wilmer's kindness and popularity among his patients, many of whom he saved from blindness or to whom he restored sight. An unemployed cobbler, whom Dr. Wilmer treated without charge, later sent a contribution all the way from the Pacific coast when funds were being raised for the Wilmer Foundation. The moving spirit in that drive was Mrs. Henry Breckenridge of New York, who had been relieved of blindness by the skill of Dr. Wilmer.

STATE MAPS TO SHOW ROADSIDE PICNIC GROUNDS

Division of Highways Has Provided Many Small Parks

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 12.—(AP)—Tourists who enjoy roadside box lunches will find the menace of barbed wire fences, irate bulls and no trespassing signs greatly reduced in Illinois this summer.

Further, the menu possibilities will be considerably widened with hot, fresh cooked lunches possible.

Public Works Director Robert Kingery announced today that the new state road map to be issued on Monday will show for the first time the locations of 33 new small picnic areas built for the accommodation of tourists.

Each plot has been sodded with grass, trees planted and benches and a stove provided. The ground will be cared for, Kingery said, by highway maintenance men and the facilities available to anyone.

The director particularly called attention to the largest of these picnic areas, adjacent to state route 94A in Henderson county, outside of the town of Oquawka. He described it in detail.

Details of Park
"The site is the approach to an old covered wooden bridge. When the present highway was constructed we swung the road away from the old right-of-way creating a triangle of land between the two roads. This ground we kept along with the old right-of-way, sodded it, put in trees and equipment and have what actually amounts to a small park."

"We already had the ground and bridges. Restoring the old covered crossing and painting it, together with the landscaping and picnic facilities cost altogether $400."

It was the most expensive of the new picnic areas. Others ranged down to less than $200, with the total expenditure amounting to less than $12,000, Kingery estimated.

Began Last Summer
The projects were begun last summer. Kingery said he noticed the system of roadside spots along Michigan highways and at a meeting of district engineers last August urged them to take advantage of wide right-of-ways and other land owned by the state for the purpose.

Some of them are only a half-acre in size, but others range up to three acres.
"The engineers have cooperated splendidly," the director said, "and Illinois has a new inducement for tourist travel by automobile."

Talmadge Gets Surprise in One of His Strongholds

Hamilton, Ga., March 12.—(AP)—Georgia's 1936 political record today contained a 40 to 1 "write-in" of President Roosevelt by the voters of Harris county.

The county held an unpublicized presidential preference vote yesterday in connection with a regular county Democratic primary and returns from 12 of the 14 precincts gave the president 1,424 votes to 35 for his persistent critic, Gov. Eugene Talmadge. Roosevelt's name was the only one printed on the ballot, but just above it was a notice to the voters: "If not for Roosevelt, write in preference."

Both Talmadge and Marion Allen, Georgia manager of Roosevelt's re-election campaign, said they knew nothing of the vote until returns were announced last night.

The surprise election was called for in notation printed at the bottom of the regular county ticket.

Harris is an agricultural county on the western border of the state, not far from Warm Springs, Roosevelt's Georgia home, yet has been regarded as a stronghold of Talmadge.

FEDERAL SPENDING MADE BUTT OF NEW ATTACKS

Republicans and Anti-New Deal Democrats Keep Up Shooting

Washington, March 12.—(AP)—Federal spending was pushed further to the forefront as a hot campaign issue today amid sniping attacks by Republicans and an anti-New Deal Democrat and defense by the administration.

Another development in the fast-moving pre-convention campaign was an announcement that Senator Borah of Idaho would enter the California primary in his effort to win support for the Republican presidential nomination.

Charles A. Sunderlin, Los Angeles lawyer, said the Idahoan, already slated to do battle in strategic primaries such as Ohio and Illinois, would enter his name on the coast tonight for the vote May 5.

Power of Patronage
A renewed assault on administration expenditures came about the time that Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, issued a report saying charges of "political influence" in relief activities in West Virginia were unfounded.

Former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, a Liberty League Democrat, declared last night that "all the power of the greatest patronage organization this country has ever seen" was used in the New Hampshire primary to win victory for delegates pledged to President Roosevelt.

Senator Robinson (D-Ark), defending New Deal relief activities, has said the administration was exerting all efforts to keep politics out. Hopkins, following this up, said in a report last night that not a single relief job in West Virginia was obtained through political influence, Senator Holt (D-Wa.), who charged relief was politics-ridden in his state, prepared to reply to Hopkins on the senate floor today.

"Flagrant Demagoguery"
Senator Dickinson (R-Iowa) who has expressed presidential aspirations, said in a Boston political broadcast:

"What is more logical than that greedy political machines, anxious for votes, should seek to extend their control to the relief rolls?"

Col. Frank Knox, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination on the hustings in Houston, Tex., declared New Dealers to be "guilty of flagrant demagoguery" in charging that "those of us who cry out against reckless spending and boondoggling x x x would economize by letting the people starve."

COMPTON NEWS

Compton—The date for this year's Hobby show to be held at the Compton school has been tentatively set for March 28. If there is some other social affair set for that date which will conflict, will the person in charge please call the school so that the date may be shifted?

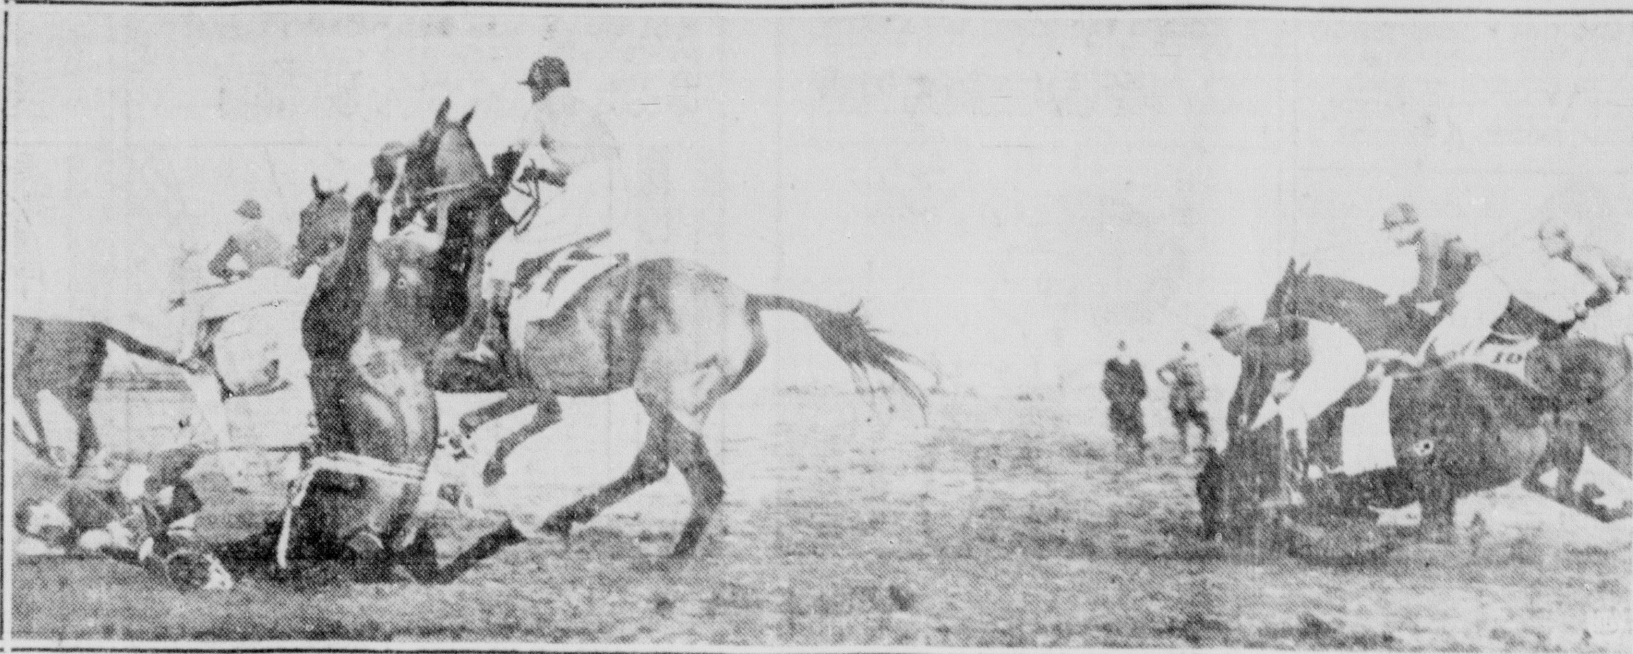

This year's show will be somewhat different from those in the past in that each room or department in the building has kept samples of their work and the samples will be on display in the rooms as well as the hobbies which will be shown in the gym. The Boy Scouts will have an exhibit. The pupils of schools in the community of Compton are invited to bring their hobbies to the gym for exhibition.

Wed for Keeps

Although they rushed to Armonk, N. Y., late at night to have their marital knots tied, the former Mrs. Charlotte Milburn Pickering insists that her marriage to Thomas P. Cheesborough (that's he beside her) was not an elopement. "It was planned a long time—and this time it's permanent," New York's pretty young society divorcee explained.

"Lady Stella's Down! And Look, There Goes Helen's Answer!"

Spills are accepted as looked-forward-to thrills in steeplechase races, but it's rare indeed when you see two horses falling at the same time, but here the camera has recorded blood-stirring double fall. Lady Stella (left) gracefully stands on her ear as Helen's Answer (right) does her best to imitate the stunt. They fell in jumping the first obstacle in a race at Cottenham, England. Jockey Robinson, rolling on the ground at extreme left, was injured.

Many of last year's exhibits will be enlarged and shown. Some of the very interesting collections of last year were match folders, matches, buttons, finger prints, stamps, nails, prints, rocks, ship models, post marks, pins, bottle caps, autograph, etc. Suggested additions to the list of collections are cartridges from the 22 calibre to the eighth gauge, quilt patterns, keys, pin and button decorated caps, a display of war medals owned by the local war veterans, and many other things would stand a chance of winning one of the ribbons offered.

It is hoped that the older people who have such interesting collections etc. will bring them in. Further information will be given in this column next week.

NEWS! CAMERAMAN SNAPPED

'Tisn't often that a cameraman gets his picture in the paper. But Mike Ackerman, Acme-NEA Service staff photographer, who is shooting such swell action pictures in the Florida baseball training camps, got on the other end of the camera at Sarasota, Fla., and we thought you might want to see what he looks like. Here he is, sparsely thatched on top, posing with the Boston Red Sox's brother battery—Wes Ferrell, pitcher, left, and Rick Ferrell, right. A layout of Ackerman's unusual action pictures appears on today's sports page.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

BRETHREN CHURCH

The Sunday school classes of the Brethren church are conducting the mid-week services during Lent and the plan points to a successful and helpful series in which the church will receive a great blessing. Last night the Home Builders class, which is taught by C. A. Bryan, conducted an uplifting, helpful and spiritual meeting on the subject of "The Proper Observance of Lent." The class led their audience into deep meditation concerning the last days of Christ's ministry and climaxed with the Easter message of the resurrection which they claimed was the main spring to the Christian religion of today. Their program was as follows: Leader, Eldon Myers; devotions conducted by C. A. Bryan; "Closing Events in the Ministry of Christ," Chester Moats; "What Lent Means to the Christian Church," Mrs. Chester Moats; duet, C. A. Bryan, Paul Thompson; "How Can Lent Help Me As a Christian?" C. A. Bryan; "What Easter Means to the Christian," Paul Thompson; reading, Eldon Myers. The music was in charge of C. A. Bryan and Mrs. Paul Thompson.

The Go-Getters class, taught by Mrs. Ed Holbrook will conduct the service next Wednesday night at 7:30. This is a younger class and they will no doubt bring a helpful and interesting service. The plan is proving a delightful pleasure and it is believed will bring many rich blessings to the church.

CHURCHES TO UNITE.

The churches of the community are combining their interests and efforts for a series of three sermons to be preached by Dr. Charles R. Goff, minister of the Court Street Methodist church of Rockford. The dates of the special services are March 25, 26, 27 and the meetings will be held in the Dixon Methodist church.

Dr. Goff comes with a fine record of many years of service behind him. His training in the universities, his wide experience as a preacher and lecturer and his keen approach to the every day problems of men and women will make his coming to Dixon a vital event in the lives of all who hear him.

Singing of great hymns familiar to all the churches will be a feature of the meetings. The Reverend A. D. Shaffer, president of the ministerial association, will preside at the first service. Enthusiastic support on the part of the people of the community should fill the church sanctuary for every service.

Young Widow Seeks Custody of Her Son

Chicago—Mrs. Emma Johnson, 30, widow of Wilmington, Ill., asked the Cook county Circuit court for a writ of habeas corpus to regain custody of her son, John, 11. She said she placed the boy in the custody of the defendant, Joseph Hoffman, Chicago automobile salesman, nine years ago because she and her late husband Joseph Johnson were then unable to make a home for him. Her petition set forth they paid Hoffman $1,500 to care for John and that he now refuses to yield custody.

Names of notes of the musical scale were taken from the initial syllables of the lines of a hymn.

CHAPTER I
THE young man said hastily, "I'm sorry."

His voice was low, pleasantly modulated. Toby noticed that, even before she noticed the broad, rough-towed shoulders, the hat brim dipping jauntily, the brown eyes.

Toby's gray-blue eyes met the brown ones. She said, "It's all right," and smiled in the way that brought the dimple into one cheek. Then she hurried on toward the employees' entrance of Bergman's department store.

"Shouldn't go whirling around corners," she reminded herself severely. "Bumping into people! Ought to look where you're going!"

And then Toby was at Bergman's. Other girls, by twos and threes and some of them singly, were crowding through the doorway. Toby pushed inside, sighed involuntarily as her eyes met the time clock. She had made it, all right!

Meanwhile, on the busy corner half a block away, the young man with the brown eyes and the jaunty hat brim watched her disappear. He could do this quite easily (though Toby was a little thing) because her caplike hat was bright green. He watched until she was lost in the crowd before the doorway. Then he murmured, "Bergman's," halfaloud, eyeing the huge electric sign which swung from the top of the building almost halfway to the street. Smiling and leisurely, the young man walked to the curb and summoned a cab.

That is how Toby Ryan met Tim Jamieson.

Not, of course, that they had really met. Brushing into a stranger during a Manhattan rush hour, making apologies and hurrying on is a common enough experience, quickly forgotten. But, afterward, Toby Ryan remembered the encounter and knew it was really the beginning of the whole thing.

She didn't know it that morning. Inside the big department store the day's routine had begun. Toby was "in the jewelry," which meant she sold pins, rings, bracelets, compacts—rings, brightly-colored bangles ranging in price from 29 cents for the imitation ivory bracelets to $79.50 for the "debutante" watch (special this week only) glittering magnificently with six tiny diamonds on either side of the small, oblong face.

The store stylist called these wares "junk jewelry," signifying that their intrinsic value was slight. Nevertheless, the jewelry was an important department at Bergman's.

Toby, folding a denim counter cover, murmured, "Good morning," to Maurine Hall and moved aside in the narrow space behind the counter.

"Morning," answered Maurine who was also "in the jewelry." She added, "Lord, do I feel dead this morning!"

"Pearly last night!"
"Mum—!" Maurine moved a dust-er rather desultorily about the edges of the tray of Chinese charms pins. She put a hand to her mouth to stifle a yawn. "It was after four before I got to bed," she confessed. "Seemed like I didn't any more than close my eyes before that alarm was ringing!"

Toby went to the other end of the counter to straighten the sign reading, "Handset Rhinestone Bracelets, $2.95 to $5." She wondered if Mr. Pharis, the good-looking buyer in the silverware department, would be in today.

Working at the same counter as Maurine, it was no wonder Toby Ryan went unnoticed. Yet Toby was well worth noticing. Gray blue eyes beneath curving brows—nose with a bit of a tilt—generous lips, healthily crimson—a chin that was practically perfect. That was Toby Ryan. Her hair was light brown or deep golden, depending on whether or not you saw her in the sunlight. She stood five feet three in her trim pumps, wore size 12 frocks—and wore them with an air.

Nobody at Bergman's thought Toby was a beauty, though every body liked her—everyone who knew her, that is. Toby hadn't many acquaintances. She had been at Bergman's only two months and, besides, she seldom made friends.

San Antonio, Tex.—If practice makes perfect, young Bud Hafe, Chick's nephew, should have a big season with the Pirates. He spent the whole winter playing in exhibition games and keeping in condition and now is getting plenty of attention from Manager Pie Traynor.

Fort Myers, Fla.—Connie Mack liked the work of Bill Dietrich against the St. Louis Cards in a Grapefruit league game yesterday. Dietrich held the Cards hitless in four innings, only 12 batters facing him. Bob Johnson and George Puccinello were hot at bat.

Winter Haven, Fla.—The Phillies go to Clearwater to meet the Dodgers today. An intra-squad game yesterday brought good pitching, with the batters held to four hits on each team.

Avalon, Calif.—Manager Charlie Grimm announced today he will divide his Cub squad into two sections for the long exhibition schedule, with the "first team" taking only the customary pre-game batting and fielding workout. Longer sessions will face the rest.

Pasadena, Calif.—Jimmy Dykes reports enthusiastically that Malin McCulloch, Mike Kreevich and George Stumpf are giving Rip Radcliff and Vernon (George) Washington a tough fight for their White Sox outfield jobs.

ing buyer in the silverware department, two counters over, had been at Maurine's party. Mr. Pharis was new in the store. His uncle was on the board of directors and Mr. Pharis, after graduating from a famous university, had traveled all over Europe. Toby had learned this from Maurine who had "been out" with the young silverware buyer.

"She can have him," Toby thought carelessly. Maurine had been late this morning, as usual. Gladys Sorenson, the third girl at the counter, insisted Maurine had a quilt with Miss Burrows, the buy-er. Toby didn't think that. She thought Gladys, who was older than the others and whose figure could be described only by the word "dumpy," said such things because Maurine was an out-and-out beauty. Employees who didn't know her referred to Maurine Hall as "that pretty girl in the jewelry." She had an arresting beauty that eclipsed her surroundings, inevitably drew attention to itself.

quickly. Toby wasn't the sort to talk much about herself, didn't ask other girls to go home with her for dinner, or suggest "double dates."

TRUTH to tell, behind the counter, at Bergman's there was little opportunity to talk. The first floor was always a beehive. All day long a steady stream of shoppers poured through the broad center aisles—men, women and children; some obviously wealthy, others pathetically shabby; some buying extravagantly, others "just looking."

Toby, finishing a day behind the counter—particularly a sale day—almost always felt ready to drop. Yet she loved it. She liked working at Bergman's; it was the best place she had ever worked. Toby, at 19, had been an independent wage earner for almost two years. Ever since the aunt with whom she had lived in Jackson Heights had died.

Toby had had to leave high school then, a month before graduation. She had been lucky about finding work—as an extra sales girl during the Easter rush. Since then she had worked at a telephone switchboard; in a five and ten store, selling electrical supplies; operating an elevator; demonstrating a waving lotion (her own hair curled naturally); and trying—with disheartening results—to interest unseen telephone customers in the merits of a new line of automobile tires.

Now she was at Bergman's, by far the best place of all. Toby thought that if a girl worked hard in a place like Bergman's she could hope for advancement some day—become assistant buyer, or even (and why not?) a buyer. Toby was ambitious; she wanted a better job.

She couldn't ask the other girls to go home with her because home was a tiny single room on the third floor, rear, of a rather unpleasant house. The house stood on an unpleasant street, too. There was a single window, a studio couch—rather badly worn, three chairs, a table that failed to stand squarely on its four legs and a gas plate on which to make coffee and fry chops. The bath was down the hall, shared with other roomers on the floor. The remarkable thing about the room was that the rent was only $4.50 a week.

Toby received $15 every Saturday at Bergman's. Subtracting $4.50 for room rent left $11.50 for food, clothing, carfare, and the innumerable incidentals that were always popping up. Toby managed, but it required careful figuring.

Gladys Sorenson, holding up a string of 79-cent pearls for a customer to examine, caught Toby's eye and nodded significantly. Toby followed the nod, saw Maurine at the end of the counter. Maurine was resting a rub-stipped hand against her cheek as she smiled at Mr. Pharis, on the opposite side of the counter. Apparently what Maurine had to say, or what the young man was saying, was important. A woman with a small child in tow had paused impatiently nearby, but Maurine did not notice her.

Toby hastened toward the customer. "Is there anything I can show you, Madam?"

"Well," the woman said sharply, "you might show me a little attention, if it's not too much trouble. Aren't you girls paid for that? I've been standing here for five minutes, trying to get someone to wait on me—"

It hadn't been five minutes and Toby knew it, but she said quickly, "Oh! I'm sorry. What was it—?"

"Oh!" The woman glared at her, then seemed to remember that she had come to the store to make a purchase. She opened her purse, took out a small turquoise pin and said, "Here—have you any earrings to match that?"

"I think so. The earrings are over here, Madam—"

But by the time Toby had selected three pair of earrings exactly matching the pin, the prospective customer decided she did not have time to make a choice, and departed.

Toby, putting the tray of earrings back into place, saw Miss Burrows, the jewelry buyer, approaching. Miss Collins from the advertising department was with her.

They were almost beside her before Toby noticed the man with them. He wore a trench coat and his brown felt hat was jammed on rather carelessly. The three halted and Miss Burrows said, raising her voice a trifle, "Oh, Maurine—"

Maurine Hall answered quickly, "Yes, Miss Burrows!"

"Maurine, you're to go to the third floor with Miss Collins. They're making a photograph to advertise the new Beauty Bar, and the model who was supposed to be in the picture has sprained her ankle. I've told Miss Collins we can spare you for a little while."

Maurine smiled. "Why, I'd love to—"

she began, and then stopped. The man in the trench coat was speaking to Miss Collins, who turned, looking at Toby. Miss Collins put a hand on the jewelry buyer's arm. She said, "Mr. Hatt thinks—" and then her voice lowered so that Toby did not hear the rest.
